A new movie about young people who died after getting "vaccinated" for the Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) has been released, revealing the ugly truth about Operation Warp Speed that the pharmaceutical industry does not want people to know.

Known as "Shot Dead," the film, which premiered on Nov. 9 in Tulsa, Okla., centers around the death of an 18-year-old named Trist who died on Nov. 9, 2022, just a few months after she got the shots to "protect" her against the Chinese Virus.

"This is the movie we wish we didn't have to make," reads the film's official website. "But this is a movie everyone needs to see. For the first time ever, hear the stories of covid shot deaths as told by the parents who lost their children."

The film brings to light and pays homage to the many untold stories of young Americans whose lives were tragically cut short as a result of COVID shots, which were unleashed by the Trump regime in late 2020 through Operation Warp Speed.

These shots were promoted by both Democrats and Republicans alike as "safe and effective" for preventing serious infection with COVID, but there is zero evidence to back these claims – and plenty of evidence to the contrary.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) emergency use authorized (EUA) the injections early on, then later approved some of them. As a result, millions of people are now dead or suffering from side effects like myocarditis.

"Shot Dead" focuses mainly on families who refrained from coming forward until now to tell their stories. Perhaps due to fear or embarrassment, many of them chose to lay low, but are now speaking out on behalf of their children and others like them who suffered and died in vain.

The purpose of "Shot Dead" is to tell the truth to as many people who will hear it "so this doesn't happen to one more child."

"This is the first film that focuses on the deeply personal aspect of the devastation unleashed by the shot and the mandates, as told by the families who lost loved ones," reads a description of the film.

"This film will make you cry. This film will make you think. And this film will prompt you to take action for children everywhere."

In the film, Trista's parents, Allen and Taylor Martin, are interviewed, as is Ernest Ramirez, the father of now-deceased 17-year-old Ernest Ramirez, who took the jabs and paid the price.

A third victim, a newborn baby named Naomi who died just 11 hours after birth due to lack of lung development, is also featured in the film through her mother, Victoria. Naomi's grandparents, Jeff and Rhonda White, are also featured in the film, as is Naomi's sister, Piper.

"Both Trista and Ernesto received the shots themselves while Naomi suffered the adverse events of the one her mother received during her first trimester," LifeSiteNews reports.

"In addition to the victims' families, the film also interviews several medical professionals who provide greater context regarding the link between the shots and the sudden deaths the children."

These medical professionals include registered nurse working in postpartum Michelle Gershman, cardiologist Dr. Peter McCullough, and certified obstetrician and gynecologist Dr. James Thorp. Each of these three experts shares his and her opinion, based on science, about what they feel COVID injections have done to the youth of America.

At any time they could have said out loud "THIS IS WRONG!" but instead they insisted to follow the new western fashion to be with the cool kids. And now beg for pity. And their foolishness is profited by people who pretend benevolence. Remarkable!
